

Abstract

A system and method compensate for phase noise of a spectrum analyzer based on an established model of the phase noise that accommodates a variety of operating states of the spectrum analyzer. The model is used to form an array that is applied to extract an 5 output signal from measurement traces that are acquired by the spectrum analyzer.